Bereavements

Where do you begin?

Planning a Funeral is an emotionally stressful and difficult time involving financial decision making and uncertainty.

Undertakers will give you advice, but in some instances the thought of dealing with them directly can be unbearable and the options and information surrounding funerals and arrangement planning can seem overwhelming at an already complicated time.

At Kent Events, we offer a place to start when faced with the task of arranging a funeral. We take you gently, from the right undertaker for your beloved one, through the Celebration of their Life to the burial or cremation, and on to the wake.

Because we are totally independent of the funeral industry, the information we offer is given with your best interests at heart, and with the goal of helping you to make the personal and financial choices that leave you with peace of mind.
