Nesrin Topkapi shot to fame in 1979; she was the first belly dancer to perform on national Turkish TV and became one of Turkey's favourite dancers. She moved to London in 1966 where she regularly performed, choreographed and made stage costumes. Nesrin performed alongside Donna Summer in her Turkish concerts, she regularly toured Turkey and abroad, performing both as a dancer and as a singer. She opened her own dance studios, giving Oriental dance classes to locals and international visitors. In 2005, she performed in concert with Turkish singer Sibel Can. She was also the choreographer behind international dance hit Anadolu Atesi (Fire of Anatolia).

Nesrin is known for her unique teaching style and fun workshops
