

S333 on Stasis

Vince: S333, will you speak of Stasis a little? Perhaps answer a few points for now?

S333: Hello Dear One, go ahead, and I will do my best for you.

Vince: OK then. Are we going to have a period of Stasis?

S333: Yes indeed you are. You see, there have to be cleansing operations, and that can't happen without stasis. When you return from stasis, things will be different and life will be harder. You will also find yourselves in a post geophysical event scenario.

That means that some places will have been flattened, and some covered in volcanic debris. It is impossible for anyone to say what towns and cities will be affected and to what extent, because they are natural events with their own dynamic, but the results will be very noticeable.

Vince: Will there be a reduction of the global population, and to what extent?

S333: Yes, there will be a number of people who pass over as a result of major geophysical events and adverse weather systems, as well as those who can no longer live with the higher energy patterns on Earth. There will also be people removed who have to be taken away because they are seriously dark ones and would only carry on and make things bad once more.

I am not going to say that a certain number of people are going to be taken away to other planets and another amount of people are going to die and so on, because these matters are very fluid. It has been said that we want to have the maximum number of people benefit from the upcoming Earth changes, and stay there and develop a new civilisation, and that is still true. But if you ones all fixate on the number of people going or staying, you will inevitably come to the wrong conclusion in the final analysis. Numbers are estimated and given out, and you ones set them in stone, when they are not for doing so.

We are speaking of fluid dynamics here, and at the end of the day it works out how it works out, and if that means a larger proportion of the Earth's population remains there than you have thought would remain, then that's how many people are there to work with. I don't think many of you ones realise just how fluid things are and I promise you that however you imagine the post stasis scenario to be, then you will be wrong; and I don't care how so-called 'important' people think they are in the running of things in your dimension, they cannot predict the outcome; nobody can.

Not only that, but what purpose does it serve to start pulling numbers out of the air? Well, it gives the ones who think in a linear manner a quantifiable but imaginable scenario. It's just like with your linear time frames, where everything has to be measured by the numbers of days and nights, where in reality the time ruling is the project time, and not the number of days; it's just linear thinking.

What is really important is the individual's relationship with God; their understanding of invisible (to them) realms and beings, and whether they are developing spiritually. You ones of the 'lightworker' tendency are going to be in demand when the great cleansing is over and when your world starts the long process of correction from where it all went so very wrong, to the point it gets back on track to where it should be. If you start counting the days as to how long that's going to take, then your mind will boggle with the vast number of days involved. But in reality, it takes as long as it takes, for once the Dark rebellion is finally concluded, then the green shoots will start to show on the ground, and the correcting begins, and it takes as long as it takes; no more and no less.

Did you really think it was going to be half a dozen years or so? Think in terms of thousands; even tens of thousands possibly. What has happened in the last two thousand years on Earth; both not much and a great deal. A great deal of wrong has happened, causing a deeper voyage down to the basement of darkness and godlessness, and really not huge pinnacles of light and goodness; and that is in a very short period of time set against the geological age of Mama Earth. So, what are a few more thousands of years to build the great civilisation you should have had? Not much really, and if it's worth doing, it's vital that you ones do it well this time.

Ponder on that, why don't you, and I'll talk with you again soon.

I am S333 of the Spiritual Hierarchy, and this message which is all my work was transmitted to Vince who transcribed and will publish it as requested by me. 3rd June 2010