

THE LEGENDS MUSEUM - RUSSELL MARTIN

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I was fortunate enough to be introduced to Russell Martin soon after he bought Churchill's, and had begun to set up his Legends Museum in Babbacombe, Torquay.

From our first meeting, I have been struck by his genuine desire to use this remarkable facility to inspire young people to follow the example of those who have achieved greatness, often in the face of diversity. In an age when we are so short of worthy role models, I have no doubt that the Legends Museum, with Russell at the helm, will fulfil a very valuable task in our community.

Anyone who has chatted to Russell for a few minutes cannot fail to be impressed by his knowledge of the subject, his good natured humour, and his desire to spread the gospel of sport to anyone who is wise enough to listen.

I believe that the Legends Museum will prove irresistible to many thousands of visitors from the moment it opens to the public. Churchill's is in a prime position to attract passing trade, and the space allocated to the museum is spacious and ideal for leisurely viewing.

I commend this remarkable collection to any potential sponsor who wishes to be associated with a project which both impresses and inspires.
